

SIR JOHN PERROT

THE Elizabethan Era was perhaps the most glorious in our island history and one in which we can take great pride.

It saw the first fruits of the three outstanding events, the Renaissance, the Discovery of America and the Reformation, movements which revolutionised the activities and minds of the people of the Western World and when the people of our country passed to maturity and awakening, and awoke to the possibilities of a more intense and adventurous life of development.

With Elizabeth as its head, Burleigh as its eminent statesman, Shakespeare as the prince of dramatists, Bacon the great philosopher, Philip Sidney and Spenser its outstanding poets; Raleigh, Drake, Froisher, its invincible sailors, our country produced a galaxy of talent which, perhaps, has never been surpassed.

During this era our own country was the birthplace of one who, although he did not attain the eminence of the above named figures, was a very remarkable man who played a prominent part in those stirring times both nationally and locally. He was Sir John Perrot, a natural son of Henry VIII, to whom he bore a remarkable resemblance in appearance, voice and temperament. His mother was Mary Berkeley, a lady of the Court and wife of Sir Thomas Perrot, a direct descendant of one of the Conqueror's entourage.

He was born in 1527 at Haroldston, just outside the Borough of Haverfordwest and he was, throughout his life, the outstanding personality in South Wales.

From his earliest years he was noted for his military ways, his prowess in athletics, his great strength and courage, and notorious for his arbitrary ways and ungovernable temper.

SIR JOHN PERROT

He was Mayor of Haverfordwest in 1570, 1575 and 1576, Member of Parliament for Carmarthenshire, 1548-52, for Pembrokehire, 1563-67 and Haverfordwest in 1588.

In 1551 he was High Sheriff for Pembrokehire and later Vice-Admiral for West Wales in which latter office he was responsible for the suppression of piracy, but he undoubtedly shared the booty of many a valuable cargo.

He was a great friend of Edward VI, who made him a Knight of the Bath, and although nothing was said of any acknowledgment of his parentage the relationship was frankly acknowledged by Edward VI, Mary and Elizabeth.

During the reign of Mary he was imprisoned for favouring Protestantism and harbouring heretics at Haroldston, but was released on her death.

Elizabeth granted him many favours. He was one of four who carried the canopy at her Coronation. She appointed him Lord President of Munster to quell the Desmond Rebellion, which he did in twelve months, and then returned to Haroldston and later to the Lordship of Carew Castle. Subsequently he was appointed Lord Deputy of Ireland (1584-88).

In 1591 he was falsely accused of High Treason, being denounced, it is said by Thomas Cadarn of Prendergast. He was condemned to death, but Elizabeth refused to sign the death warrant as she knew he was innocent and resolved to pardon him, but before the warrant was signed he died in the Tower of London and was buried in St. Peter's Church there.

His portrait, which hangs in the Shire Hall, Haverfordwest, and presented to the County by Sir Charles F. G. Phillips, Bart., of Picton Castle, is a copy of the original painting in the possession of Sir John Pakington, Bart., of Twickenham and formerly of Westwood, Worcestershire, a direct descendant of Sir John Pakington, Bart., who married Hester, the inheritor of Sir Herbert Perrot of Haroldston, in 1700.

THE CHARACTER OF SIR JOHN PERROT

IN 1727 Richard Rawlinson, LL.D., F.R.S., St. John's College, Oxford, received from Ireland the original manuscript of "The Life, Deeds and Death of Sir John Perrot" which he published in London the following year, and which has been authenticated as having been written by an unknown author about the latter end of the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

It is from this book that the following details of Sir John's character have been extracted.

"Sir John Perrot was a man in stature very tall and big, exceeding the ordinary stature of man by much, and almost equal to the mightiest men that lived in his time. His body was very compact and proportionable through all its parts. As he did exceed most men in stature so did he in strength of body. His hair was auburn until it grew grey in his elder years, his countenance full of majesty, his eye marvellous piercing and carrying a commanding aspect. In time of danger he showed himself resolute and valiant. He had a very sharp wit, and was (as may be said) naturally wise, for though he was not learned in the sciences yet would he give as good a reason for matters of Experiment as most men. He had in him many excellent parts, as Magnanimity, Valour, Ripeness of Judgment, Understanding of the Languages as the French, Spanish, the Italian, and in fact, matters that a man not professing Learning could comprehend; he had some defects else had he not been flesh and blood. He would swear too much which proceeding from custom and partly from choler, he could hardly refrain when provoked."

The Rev. James Phillips (1847-1907) in his "History of Pembrokehire" gives the following vivid and striking estimate of his character:

"He was a true son of Henry VIII. If he recognized in an exaggerated form the faults and vices which defined him father's character without the genuine refinement and culture which half concealed them from the King's contemporaries, he also inherited those qualities that enabled the masterful Tudor to retain in so large a measure, the confidence and loyal admiration of his people.

Most significant is the admission of his bitter enemy that he was "frended" as well as feared.

Unclean of lip and life, unscrupulous in his greed, ungovernable in his passions, cruel in his resentment, he was yet loved quite as much as he was hated.

Patriotic and loyal to the heart's core, and sincere in his attachment to the Protestant Faith, he might have taken a high place among the statesmen of Elizabeth's reign if it had not been for the violence of his temper and the foulness of his morals and his speech. The Queen entertained a high opinion of his abilities.

He had been one of the wealthiest subjects of the Crown, but the extravagance of his habits, the expensive vices in which he indulged, the number of his retainers and his princely liberality, left him little margin of income over expenditure."

Sir John had a great love for Haverfordwest and he always took a prominent part in its administration. He was Mayor three times and in 1588 was its Member of Parliament.

During his lifetime the town attained great prosperity. It contained many men of enterprise and foresight, and the Queen's Surveyor described it, "The best buyt, the most civill and quickest occupied towne in South Wales". George Owen of Henllys, Lord of Kemes, our first illustrious County Historian, stated that "Haverfordwest is a good towne, wealthie and well governed".

With its seven guilds and the many productive activities in the town many merchants built up a lucrative and foreign trade, and in this Sir John was intimately interested.

It is therefore not surprising that being so engrossed in the town's prosperity and future development he should endow the town with a princely gift the benefits from which it still happily enjoys.

As will be seen from the GRANT dated 20th September, 1580, full details of which are given below, he directed that the rents and profits derived from the messuagial lands and tenements devised therein were to be expended to the improvement of the Town of Haverfordwest, and to the repair of the streets, bridges, walls, conduits of water, and all other dilapidations of Haverfordwest as well as to the rebuilding of the new quay in the town and all other useful works which may be needful or suitable for the improvement of the town.

The original document which is written in Latin inscribed on parchment is in excellent condition and is now displayed on the wall in the Mayor's Parlour in the Corporation Offices, Picton Place. And interesting, is Sir John's seal attached.

In May 1899 the Deed was translated by Henry Owen Esq., D.C.L. (Oxon), F.S.A., our County's most illustrious historian, and it is as follows:—

To all the Faithful in Christ to whom this Present Deed shall come,

JOHN PERROT of Haroldston, in the County of Pembroke, Knight, (wishes) eternal salvation in the Lord. KNOW YE that I the said John Perrot for the love which I bear towards my beloved and faithful neighbours the burghesses of the town and county of Haverfordwest and for that the mayor sheriff bailiffs and burghesses of the said town have granted for them and their successors that I and my heirs in time to come living and dwelling at Haroldston aforesaid or elsewhere in the said county of Pembroke shall have so much of every kind of wine, salt or any other merchandise coming into Milford and to the same town for common traffic or contract of sale as shall suffice for the sustenance of our house at the same price.

as the mayor and other burgresses of the same town shall buy and have them. And that it shall be wholly lawful for me and my heirs living and dwelling at Haroldston aforesaid or elsewhere within the said county of Pembroke to have the pre-emption of all kinds of victuals coming to the market of the town aforesaid next after the mayor of the same town for the time being at the like price as they shall be sold to another. And that I and my heirs living and dwelling at Haroldston aforesaid shall be burgresses and of the council of the same town if we will. And that we shall have the nomination of one burgress in the same town in any year in which such burgress may be living and dwelling in the same town and in which he shall take such oaths as the other burgresses of the same town are wont to take.

10. A fee farm rent of 5/- issuing out of a house in St. Mary's Street belonging to Richard Pursell, William Perry and Mrs. Howell.
11. A fee farm rent of 6/8 issuing out of a house in Pillory Street (between the Fish Market and the bottom of Market Street) belonging to the Grammar School).
12. A fee farm rent of 4/- issuing out of the Blue Boar Inn belonging to the Grammar School.
13. A fee farm rent of 16/- issuing out of a house and yard on the west side of Market Street belonging to James Higgon and in the occupation of William Owen.
14. A fee farm rent of £1 issuing out of two houses and a garden on the west side of Market Street belonging to Richard Rees and in the respective occupation of Ann Bowen and James Griffith.

15. A fee farm rent of 8/- issuing out of a house and yard on the east side of Market Street belonging to and in the occupation of John Bowen.

16. Four fee farm rents of 3/- 1/- 8d. 2/- issuing out of houses on the south side of Goat Street belonging respectively to George Roch and in the occupation of John Harding Harries, to Henry Leach and in the occupation of Harriet Phillips, to John Bowen and in the occupation of Miss Carrow, and to Samuel Harries and in the occupation of James Scurlock and George Harries.

17. The Green Meeting House. Founded 1638. Name retained until 18th March 1841 when it was changed to Albany Chapel. Let to the Trustees of the Albany Chapel for 75 years, from the 28th December, 1840, at £5 (later for 99 years from 29th September 1907, at £8 a year). Freehold bought by the Trustees of Albany in 1951 for £241 under the Places of Worship Enfranchisement Act, 1920.

18. A fee farm rent of 5/- issuing out of certain houses in Hill Street belonging to John Lloyd.

19. The Old Show Yard enclosed in 1845. The Commissioners state that nothing is recorded by the trustees as to this, but that a field of about half an acre at the upper end of Dew Street on the west answers the description. The field was claimed by Sir Richard Phillips to whom they had written.

20. House and garden situate in Dew Street in the tenure of Thomas Venables, police officer.

21. Three houses called Rats' Island. These were in the middle of Upper Dew Street near the Kings Arms and have since been removed. Sold in 1845 by the Trustees to the Paving and Lighting Commission for £30.

22. A fee farm rent of 10/- issuing out of two houses and gardens in Dew Street belonging to Charles Prust and in the respective occupation of Thomas Bowen and Ann Smith.

27. A house and garden in Dew Street in the tenure of Robert Fry.

28. Two closes of pasture land with six or seven cottages thereon near Cartlett bounded on the south by the Narberth Road, on the north by Shoalshook brook and the east and west by land of John Lort Phillips. Nothing was then received for these lands, which were claimed by Sir Richard Phillips.

29. A fee farm rent of 10/- issuing out of a house and garden in Bridge Street belonging to John Bowen and in the occupation of Thomas Maddocks and perhaps also of another house and garden in the same street belonging to Ann Smith and in the occupation of John Jardine.

30. A fee farm rent of 7/- issuing out of a field containing two acres of meadow land near Jury Cross in the Parish of St. Martin belonging to Elizabeth Rees and in the occupation of Henry Rees.

31. Two houses near the (old) Bridge in the tenure of George Beddoe.

32. A fee farm rent of 10/4 issuing out of a nursery garden containing about one acre of land called Moor's Garden, upon which about five cottages have been built, belonging to Ann Barlow and John Lort Phillips and in the occupation of William Bilton.

33. Nothing was paid in respect of this, which the Commissioners seem to identify with the seven or eight dwelling-houses and gardens with stables and coachhouses near the "old castle walls and mounds."

34. A fee farm rent of 1/8 issuing out of three closes of pasture land in the Parish of St. Martin belonging to Sir Richard Phillips in the occupation of Edmund Tracy.

The Commissioners point out that the above fee farm rents are received for property in which Sir John Perrot granted the entire interest. They also give particulars of certain property conveyed to the trustees which were not included in the original grant.

For a great number of years the Perrots remained in possession of the lordly mansion of Haroldston and many of them exerted a popular and powerful influence in the locality. There lived Sir Herbert Perrot, the protector of Peregrine Phillips, and also a later Sir Herbert, whose daughter Hester, his inheritor, married Sir John Pakington, Baronet of Westwood, Worcestershire.

It was there in Haroldston during the reign of Queen Anne (1702-14) that the great essayist Joseph Addison was a frequent and honoured guest, and it was Sir Herbert who presented to him his beautiful model character, Sir Roger de Coverley, so exquisitely depicted in the Spectator.

The Pakington family used to state that it was the Sir John Pakington who married Hester Perrot that was supposed to have been the prototype of Sir Roger de Coverley, but that theory is now discarded by them.

It was there in Haroldston at a masked ball that Addison first met the fair Countess of Warwick whom he after wooed and won though she proved a prize of somewhat doubtful value.

After the death of Lady Pakington in 1715 the family interest in Haroldston languished and finally the lordly mansion fell into decay.

THE PERROT TRUST is by far the most important and lucrative of the many charities in the town, and it is remarkable that it has been in operation for nearly 400 years with an annual income now in 1962 of approximately £2,750.

During certain periods the Charity was not efficiently administered, and as a result of neglect, indifference, much appropriation by the Common Council and large land-owners, loss of capital due to unwise investments and other causes, many of the original properties have been lost.

In 1831 at a town's meeting called to take into consideration the propriety of instituting measures for putting into their proper channels the various charitable funds of the town which had been for many years misapplied by the Corporation, the Perrot Trust came in for special criticism when it was stated that for the last 50 years not a single sum had been expended for any of the purposes intended, that it was a highly improvable estate and would in a few years yield a revenue of £300 yearly. As a result of this meeting Lord Brougham's Commission on Charity Funds visited the town in 1834 and investigated and identified most of the properties and checked all abuses. Shortly afterwards the first Charitable Trust Act was passed which put the Charity on a sound business footing, and since then it has been efficiently administered and the funds scrupulously applied for the purposes intended.

From 1834 the Trustees have allotted considerable amounts for the improvement of the town in accordance with the terms of the Trust, and the following list affords some indication of what has been done.

1. A grant of £1,200 for the construction of the pavements leading to the New Bridge from both ends when the bridge was built in 1837.
2. Maintenance of the Quay for several centuries until the abandonment of the river traffic in the first half of this century.

3. Building of Perrot Terrace in Barn Street on the site known as "The Villas"
4. Demolition of old houses on the Cardigan Road and building of new modern houses on the site.
5. Building of six modern houses in Portfield and named Carew Terrace.
6. Construction and maintenance of the steps leading from Dark Street to High Street.
7. Construction of various pavements in the town including the following:—
 - (a) Hill Street. The first street in the town to have pavements and which were facetiously known for a long time as "The King Street Flags".
 - (b) Barn Street. The pavement from the Hotel Mariners to Albert Street.
 - (c) Maintenance and repair of the Town Clock in the Tower of St. Mary's Church.

During the last twelve years the Trustees have allotted considerable sums for many worthy objects and the following list gives some striking instances of what has been accomplished:—

1. Installation of electric lighting, grates, baths, etc., to many houses. In some cases the tenants have contributed up to 8% of the cost.
2. Provision of seats in various parts of the town.
3. Grant for the planting of trees in the town.
4. Restoration of the Town Cricket Pavilion.
5. Painting of the railings around St. Thomas' Church.
6. Donation to the A.T.C. for club room furniture.
7. Restoration of the Town Cricket Ground.

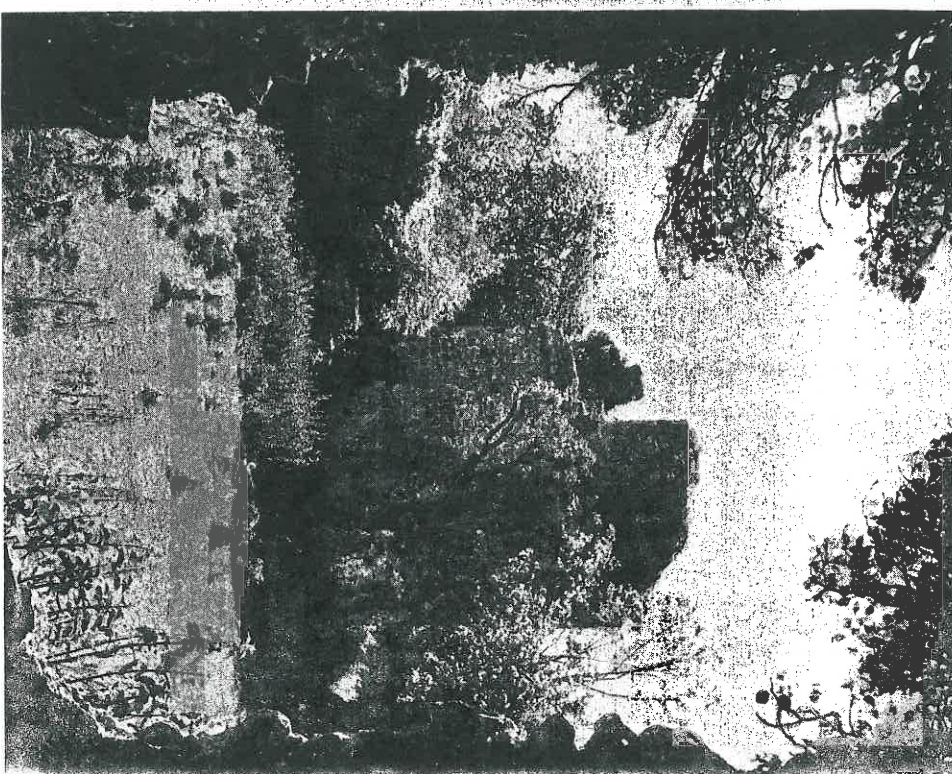

8. Grant to the Haverfordwest Flower Show Committee for prizes.
9. Donation to St. Mary's Restoration Fund.
10. Hire of bus to convey patients' relatives and friends to and from Sealyham Hospital.
11. Contributions up to 50% of cost for the construction of bus shelters at various points of the town.
12. Grant for the construction of the 1939-45 War Memorial.
13. Grant to the Town's Improvement Committee.
14. Grant to the Local Coronation Committee for decorations.

At a meeting of the trustees held on 23rd March, 1962, a substantial sum was allocated for the electrification of the Town Clock and for the cleaning and re-painting of the clock faces with English gold leaf hands, Roman Chapters, minutes etc., on black flatting and varnish background.

The above picture, taken in the Summer of 1962, shows Haroldston as it is today, only the outer walls remaining of the former beautiful home of Sir John Perrot. The trees, with their increasing girth, still cast their shade in Summer time, but all is now silent and neglected—its glory departed.

THE cost of printing this book has been borne by Sir John Perrot's Trust.

The Trustees regard its publication as an appreciation of, and tribute to the most generous benefactor the Borough of Haverfordwest ever had. They also feel that the property so bequeathed should rightly be placed on permanent record for posterity, which will be indebted for many years to come, to Sir John Perrot for the munificence of his gifts to the Ancient Borough.

At the same time as sanction was given for the printing of this book, the Trustees expressed warm appreciation of their co-Trustee, Mr. G. Douglas James—a former Assistant Master at Haverfordwest Grammar School—for his work on the book, by way of research and for his presentation of it in such a pleasing manner.

24th. August 1962.

Dear Sirs

Charity of Sir John Perrot.

We thank you for your letter of the 20th. instant and have pleasure in enclosing herewith a copy of the Book recently produced by Mr. Douglas James.

With regard to the Estate of Sir John Perrot you will note from the book that he left quite a number of properties in this town which are administered by the Charity Commissioners and a Body of Trustees. These properties are actually vested in the Trustees and would have no effect on any descendants of Sir John Perrot.

You will also read in the book of certain descendants and should you wish to obtain further information we would suggest that you write direct to Mr. G.D. James, Alberta, Haven Road, Haverfordwest.

With kind regards.

Yours faithfully,

W. J. James
